Lifeline Theatre Recreates Author Neil Gaiman's "Floating Market" for 27th Anniversary Benefit on April 19th At The Chicago Cultural Center

WHAT: For its 27th Anniversary Benefit, Lifeline Theatre will recreate "The Floating Market" from the imagination of bestselling author Neil Gaiman, a key location in both his novel "Neverwhere" and Lifeline's world premiere stage adaptation (which opens May 10, 2010). Have your fortune told. Buy a dream. Revel in the dance. Sway to the music. Witness the Bodyguard Auditions (where if you don't get cast, you die). Eat and drink to your heart's content. Gawk at the amazing crowd: belly dancers, musicians, denizens of the dark side. Anything's possible in this evening of music, fun and mystery. The evening will feature entertainment by performance artists Pyrotechniq, Read My Hips Tribal Belly Dance Company, and The Space/Movement Project, along with live performances by over a dozen musicians, and appearances by characters from both Gaiman's novel and Lifeline's stage adaptation of "Neverwhere." Food and drink will be provided, as well as a silent auction.
